Description

Reading and Writing for English Language Learners addresses research on multiple topics related to second-language literacy, including language development in the bilingual child, the relationship between oral proficiency and literacy, and culturally responsive teaching and assessment. The emphasis is on effective, research-based instructional practices that promote reading and writing success for ELL students in Grades K-12.

Learning Objectives

This course will explore the interaction between language development and literacy in ELL students and will prepare participants to help ELL students develop the reading and writing skills necessary for becoming successful learners. The primary focus will be on best practices in literacy instruction for ELL students at each stage of reading and writing development (i.e., emergent, beginning, and instructional).

Instructional Methods

We will use the University's platform for courses called Collab (<https://collab.itc.virginia.edu/portal>).

Students are expected to activate their UVa ID and use it for access to the class site.

Assignments will be submitted there; the gradebook will allow individual students to keep track of their performance in the course. All course materials and readings will be available on the Collab site as downloadable documents.
