Teaching Philosophy

Zhifang Cao

As a teacher, I believe in that everyone be equal and entitled to education and the teaching be differentiated in accordance to the students, which is my teaching philosophy and teaching practice.

To teach Chinese as a second language, I aim to provide the students with standard-based, well-structured and effective language education.

My teaching will abide by the five key elements of national standards by offering the students an authentic situation and materials of communication, comparing with and understanding the target language culture, connecting with other subject content, and reach out to the community.

In planning each unit and lesson, I keep an eye on the schemed language products and make the objectives clear and practical to students. I aim to ensure a clear and effective teacher-fronted presentation; communicative, student-centered, varied and interesting activities; well-rounded and effective assessment, multi-faceted and inter-supplemental teaching materials and resources; updated technology –aided teaching and learning.
